Bio for expert guesting, podcast interviews, radio
interviews, case study features, guest blogs, top tips, Q&As or live readings

Ange is on a mission to allow everyone access to true spirituality and particularly the help of the Universe in order to help prevent burnout.

In 2004, after a three month sabbatical, Ange wondered how to reconcile her mergers and acquisitions career with her newly founded interest in reiki and angels. As she took a walk at lunch time, an angel feather fell into her hand.

Little did she know that this was a sign of dark times to come but also that the Universe had her back. The following eighteen months were hell. Her boss was made redundant and replaced by a former boss that hated her. Before she knew it, she was no longer invited to meetings and the isolation began.

She hit proper burnout when she found out a year later that she was pregnant whilst battling her employer to get the redundancy package that she was due. Her boyfriend of the time did not want more children. She was already a single mum of two. So one night she prayed. She wasn't religious but she asked for help anyway. The next day, help came in a very unusual way.

Topics she talks about

- how to use your intuition to make smart decisions
- the four unusual ways to prevent burnout
- how to get started with your book
- how to manage energy vampires
- understand how your mind works to keep it sharp
- connecting to the energy of your business so you can serve it better

Ange's brand promises

- She approaches people, clients, partners and strangers with a spirit of kindness and respect
- She always respects other people's experiences and honours the diversity of them as she understands there is not one but many truths

- Although she is committed to being honest at all time, she aims to express her truth gently and aim at refraining from harming others with her opinions
- She approaches every situation in life with an open mind and a desire to learn and find the gold
- Her ultimate goal is to empower every person she is in contact with by showing them their own brilliance and the power of their inner wisdom
- She does not wish for anyone to depend on her for guidance
- She commits to work on her self development daily so that she can create a safe space for people who work with her, being clear on what baggage is hers and what isn't
- She is a leader who walks the talk
- She wants to bring harmony to the world

Qualifications and training

Testimonial

'I had an amazing session with Ange recently, that sent me back in time to 35 years ago where I experienced a profound and painful loss aged 20. I wasn't expecting that to be where we travelled together during my half hour session, but Ange's guides had other ideas. The healing that took place was extraordinary and has enabled me to look at my life, my business and myself in a completely new light. I have slept better, I have made better decisions since that session. I'm in awe of Ange and that without me voicing a single thing - she was able to "know" and to gently and safely take me back to that place to restore harmony. I can't recommend her enough.' Liz Harwood, Founder of Fashion Brand Famara

IAnge used to host a podcast called the Intuitive Revolution in Business Podcast which is in the top 5% global ranking and is now the host of True Spirituality with Ange.

She has published four books, the most recent being Spiritual Lawyer, the extraordinary story of a lawyer turned modern mystic.
